Your Honor,

We have been party to these proceedings for going on five years.

We understand that these matters may take time, but it appears to be somewhat excessive and the most recent 2 batches of documents we received were overwhelming to say the least.

All it did is outline attorney's fees, expenses, employee vacation compensation, etc.etc etc., amounts requested, amounts authorized, amounts declined.

Nowhere did I see anything regarding the victims and the amounts they are asking to be reimbursed.

Is this what is identified as a white collar crime? Attorneys etc. receiving thousands of dollars and the victims nothing.

I have claimed before in writing and do again, that this process appears to be a gross miscarriage of justice.

No doubt by the time it gets around to any compensation for the victim's the few assets remaining (if any) will have been gobbled up in legal fees and expenses.

I don't know if it is appropriate that I address you directly, but I can not say that our voices are being heard at all through the Attorneys handling these proceedings. We need some help for the claimants.

I don't feel any additional financial reimbursement for expenses should be granted without something for the real victims.

We are retired, living on fixed income, and intended this investment in silver to subsidise our income.

We also feel positively sure the owners of Northwest Territorial Mint are not being at all impacted as no doubt their personal assets were well protected.

Respectfully

Mr and Mrs Robert J Di Fatta
